B-29 Bombs Tear Up Osaka

B-29s Smash Osaka Arsenal

By HAMILTON W. FARRON

GUAM, June 7 (AP)—In a marked departure from recent fire raids, 450 Superforts blasted war industries and the arsenal in Osaka, the Orient's leading industrial city, with high explosives and incendiaries today in their 10th large scale raid on Japan within a month. The B-29's hit this morning as Tokyo radio admitted 200,000 more Japanese have been driven from their homes by American air attacks and would be moved to farms to help raise Japan's meager food supply.

The bombers struck for three hours through heavy overcast. Results were not observed. But a joint Japanese army-navy announcement admitted fires were started in the northern and northeastern industrial sections. The enemy said flames were "steadily being brought under control."

Tokyo did not disclose the effect of high explosives aimed at concrete and steel buildings of the huge Osaka arsenal where much of Japan's medium artillery and small arms are produced.

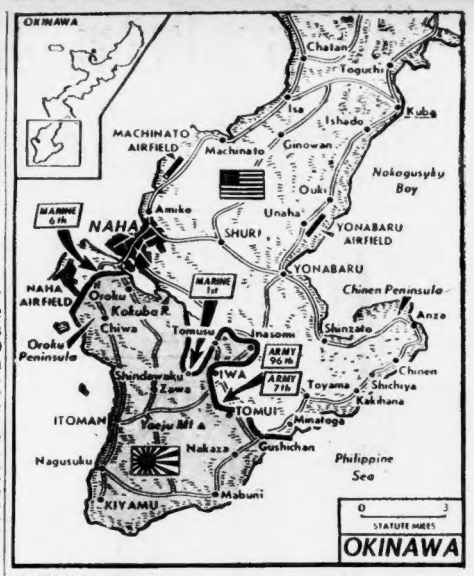
But enemy broadcasters did complain this tactic sent civilian air defense units racing to shelters, while other B-29's showered incendiaries on the factory district. Blazes they started, Tokyo said, got a good start before fire fighters got out of bomb shelters.

Almost simultaneously with the Superfort blow, Jap dispatches said, 40 Army and Navy fighters from Okinawa swept over Kyushu island suicide plane bases. In this second raid in two days, Tokyo radio said, the fighters appeared to be primarily interested in broadcasting propaganda leaflets over Kagoshima.

Enemy radio reports indicated only about 10 Superfortresses dropped high-explosive bombs on Osaka, while the greater part of the force concentrated on setting fires.

This second blast in less than a week at Japan's second largest city apparently marked it for the fate already befallen Tokyo. Recently the 21st Bomber Command said the B-29s had erased all targets they had set out to smash in the capital city. Later the command announced that "the principal portion of Yokohama (Tokyo's port city) is virtually destroyed."

During a little period of more than two weeks, large forces of the B-29s have poured more than 18,000 tons of fire bombs on Japan's industrial and military targets.



OKINAWA FRONT—While Japanese home radios mournfully report the loss of Okinawa, American Marines and soldiers continue their drive into the southern tip of the island after overrunning Naha airfield, largest field in the area. Chinen peninsular has been cleared as final mopping-up of enemy gets underway.

Japs Admit U. S. Defense Has Licked Suicide Bomb

By LEIF ERICKSON

GUAM, June 7 (AP)—The "final end" of the battle for Okinawa is in sight, largely because Americans perfected a defense against Kamikaze (suicide) planes, Tokyo's press and radio admitted today as American headquarters announced capture of the big Naha airport and further compressing of the remaining Nipponese garrison.

U. S. 10th Army engineers moved swiftly toward conversion of the Naha airdrome into another effective base for air strikes against Japan, 325 miles to the north. The field, a prime objective of the 68-day campaign, was taken over yesterday by Sixth Division Marines.

Japanese Domei news agency reported from its own correspondents the imminent end of Rising Sun strength on Okinawa with "the war situation gradually becoming more disadvantageous to our side."

"Further," Domei added, "the enemy has been effectively employing rocket ships and planes, which have checked our special attack (Kamikaze) corps aircraft from getting to their target." Kamikaze pilots have sunk 13 American ships and damaged 45 at Okinawa.

The remaining 15,000 Japs on Okinawa were squeezed into a 25 square mile area at the southern tip of the island, where they apparently planned a final suicide stand.

Naha harbor already was being readied for American use.

Across Okinawa, meanwhile, Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's Seventh Infantry Division cleared the Chinen peninsula, southern jaw of Nakagusuku harbor, the island's best fleet anchorage and one-time haven for Jap warships.

Yanks Split Japs On Luzon for Kill

By FRED HAMPSON

MANILA, June 7 (AP)—Doughboys of the 38th Division battled a desperate enemy throughout the Marikina hills, east of Manila, yesterday. More than 3000 Japs have been killed in this area by Maj. Gen. William C. Chase's men and large quantities of military booty captured.

The Japs, apparently aware that the 38th is breaking them up to liquidate them piecemeal, are fighting fiercely.

On Mindanao, Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger's Eighth Army troops made two new landings Tuesday to completely seal off Dayao gulf.

With warships and strong air support, the men landed at Cape San Augustin, southeasternmost tip of Mindanao, and on Balut Island. Opposition was negligible.

Tokyo Shakeup Over Arms Hits 67

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7 (AP)—A wholesale shakeup in the Jap munitions ministry, involving 67 persons, was reported by Tokyo radio today amid expressed fears that "the moment of decision on our own soil is rapidly approaching."

The shakeup followed an attack against the efficiency of the munitions ministry yesterday by the influential Tokyo newspaper Yomiuri Hochi, which frankly admitted that munitions production had not come up to expectations since late last year.

Chinese Take Junction Town

CHUNGKING, June 7 (AP)—Capture of Mengshan, highway and river junction 200 miles northwest of Canton and 80 miles east of the American airbase city of Liuchow, was announced today.

Capture of Mengshan would represent a growing drive from west, southwest and south of Kweilin, former provisional capital of Kwangsi Province and another American air base city.

ALLIED SUB SHELLS JAPS

NEW YORK, June 7 (INS)—An Allied submarine yesterday shelled Jap positions on the island of Miyako, about 180 miles southwest of Okinawa in the Sakishima archipelago, Radio Tokyo said today in a broadcast recorded by the FCC.

5 Croat Fascists Are Executed

By Associated Press

Premier Dr. Nikola Mandic and five other leaders of the former Croatian Fascist government have been executed after conviction of high treason and war crimes by a Zagreb court-martial, the Yugoslav Telegraph Agency said today. Three others were reported given prison sentences. The sentences included confiscation of property.

We Were Lucky

PARIS, June 7 (AP)—Alexander de Seversky told a press conference today when victory came in Europe the Germans possessed a four-engined jet-propelled plane with which they planned to bomb New York and other eastern cities of the United States by round-trip transatlantic flights.

Jap Dope Caches Found at Okinawa

NAHA, Okinawa, June 7 (AP)—Jap military forces on Okinawa were heavy users of narcotics, Navy doctors said today.

Lt. (j.g.) Frank Dwyer of Kansas City, Mo., said:

"We've found very few medical supplies, but those supplies, mostly in caves, consisted principally of sizable stocks of morphine, opium, heroin and cocaine.

"The natives have shown complete ignorance of these narcotics. It is evident it was the Japanese military and not civilians who resorted strongly to dope."

Franco Frees 2000 Political Prisoners

MADRID, June 7 (AP)—Two thousand political prisoners sentenced to terms of 20 to 30 years as a result of the civil war have been released on Generalissimo Franco's order in a cabinet meeting, it was learned today.

The prison population of Spain now is estimated at 50,000 to 80,000, of whom the majority were jailed as a result of the civil war or politics.

Jackson Indicts All High Nazis

By ROBERT G. NIXON

WASHINGTON, June 8 (INS)—Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson recommended to President Truman today practically every individual who had any connection with German Nazism be brought to trial as a war criminal.

Jackson, American prosecutor for the Allied war crimes commission, in a blistering report on Nazi atrocities, charged Germany was guilty of "international brigandage."

He officially charged Germany instigated the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor, and declared all Germans guilty of atrocities, racial or religious persecutions since 1933—six years before the European war began—should be brought to trial.

Jackson recommended firm justice be meted out to the German general staff, every top Nazi leader, the Gestapo and the SS corps.

The long list of the accused, he said, would include individuals and officials in the financial, industrial and economc life of Nazi Germany "who by all civilized standards are provable to be common criminals."

Jackson's report named no individuals, but he said their guilt would be measured by the standard of the "rule of liability"—those persons who formulated the crimes, helped to carry them out, and those who have played what a Moscow declaration described as a "consenting part" in the crimes.

Jackson's charge that Germany instigated the Pearl Harbor attack was the first official statement on that cowardly act.

Jackson told the President:

"We propose to punish acts which have been regarded as criminal since the time of Cain and have been so written in every civilized code."

Justice Jackson said this government gave the other Allied powers a proposal for trial of top war criminals before an international court a month ago, but answers have not been received from all powers and negotiations for an agreement on trials are still going on.

He said the French provisional government accepted the proposal in principle and that while Soviet Russia has been kept fully informed of the various steps taken it has not yet committed itself. The prosecutor said, however, "there is no reason to doubt it will unite in the prosecution" and it is proposed the other United Nations become adherents to the trial agreement.

He said that, in any event, the United States should try the cases "alone if necessary."

CHRISTEN BRITISH CARRIER

WALLSEND, England, June 7 (AP)—The Duchess of Kent christened today the light fleet aircraft carrier Leviathan.

Japs Shy of Rice

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7 (AP)—Regional shortages already are plaguing the Jap people, Domei reported today, adding the government is pushing the use of potatoes and even "wild vegetation" as rice substitutes.

45 Seconds for Japs to Run

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7 (AP)—Radio Tokyo complained today of a "new tactic" used by Superfortresses which today raided Osaka.

"First," said Tokyo, discussing the Yokohama raid last week, "a formation of 10 B-29s flew over the city and dumped explosive bombs thereby chasing our civilian air defensive units to air raid shelters. Then the enemy dropped incendiary bombs, thereby slowing up the fire-prevention activities."

The broadcast suggested defense units could cut damage and speed work by noting the time of descent and distance of dispersion of bombs. It takes 45 seconds for a bomb to fall from 10,000 meters, the broadcast said, adding:

"Thus, you can run quite a distance in the opposite direction after sighting the explosives."

Hub Gives Patton Rousing Welcome

GEN. "BLOOD AND GUTS" GEORGE S. PATTON, JR.
Thousands Turn Out to Greet Returning Hero

Thousands of Greater Boston residents today greeted Gen. George S. "Blood and Guts" Patton, Jr., dynamic and colorful commander of the all-conquering Third Army, upon his return from victory over the Nazi hordes.

From the moment the doughty general and his party of 46 officers and enlisted men stepped from three huge C-54 Skymasters at Bedford airport until he mounted the stage at Hatch Shell on Boston's Esplanade, Patton was cheered to the skies.

Patton and his heroes looked fresh and vigorous despite their trans-ocean trip from Paris and waved gayly to the cheering throngs which lined the streets along the entire route.

Gov. Tobin headed the reception committee of State dignitaries who greeted Patton at Bedford airport. The first unofficial greeters were Mrs. Patton and her daughters, Mrs. John K. Waters, Jr., and Mrs. James Totten, both of Washington.

Leaving the airport, the party of more than a dozen open cars moved slowly through Bedford Center, Lexington, Arlington and Cambridge, heading for Hatch Shell on the Esplanade.

At Cambridge City Hall the motorcade halted while City Manager John B. Atkinson welcomed Gen. Patton and presented him with a souvenir made from the Washington Elm. The gift was donated by Miss Rose Manning of the Cambridge Park Department.

During the brief ceremony, the Cambridge fire department band played and members of the city council and municipal department heads were assembled on the Hall steps.

Continuing on his triumphal ride, the colorful commander rode to Hatch Memorial Shell on the Charles River Esplanade where 27 officers and 281 enlisted men, wounded veterans of the Third Army, were assembled to greet him.

The men, some of them veterans of the North Africa campaign, others of the conquest of Sicily and still others of the triumphant sweep from St. Lo into Germany and Czecho-Slovakia, are patients at Cushing Hospital in Framingham and the Lovell Hospital, Ft. Devens.

Lined up at the airport were the 804th Military Police Bn., from Ft. Devens as guard of honor, and the Devens Army band playing martial airs.

Two local heroes were among Gen. Patton's returning party. They are Col. Charles R. Codman of Pinckney st., Boston, who wears among many decorations from both wars the Legion of Merit, Silver Star, Purple Heart, Croix de Guerre, and is a veteran of seven combats in Europe, and Lt. Col. Richard Faunce Lynch of Metropolitan ave., Roslindale.

Cadet George S. Patton III is coming home from West Point to attend the state dinner which will be held tonight at Hotel Copley-Plaza following this afternoon's public reception.

The legislative welcoming committee included Sens. Charles G. Miles of Brockton, Edward M. Rowe of Cambridge, Chester A. Dolan, Jr., an Army Air Force major and veteran of the South Pacific, and Reps. Russell D. Brown, David M. Cleary and Fred Pierce, retired Army general.

Spit'n Polish

At the close of the Gen. Patton reception at the Hatch Shell this evening the Third Army leader and his staff officers will go to a Roxbury clothing concern to get new summer-weight uniforms, ordered from overseas to Army specifications, which they will wear at the state dinner tonight. The noncoms and privates will also receive new uniforms from the Army Quartermaster stores.

Mystery Clues Hint Langford Solution

NEW YORK, June 7—Disclosure that they had uncovered new clues which might lead to an early break in investigation of the mystery murder of Albert E. Langford, 63, wealthy textile executive, in his fashionable Park ave. home Monday night was made by police today.

Although refusing to divulge the nature of the new leads, authorities admitted they were developed during a new 90-minute questioning of the slain man's widow.

Admitting that some of the questions put to Mrs. Langford, 70-year-old cafe society habitue were pretty sharp, Asst. Dist. Atty. Jacob Grumet, in charge of the prosecutor's homicide division, announced "she sticks to her story and is trying to be very helpful."

The widow, who for years financially aided a number of rising young musicians and artists, was questioned in the swank Hotel Marguery apartment where her husband was slain by two unidentified gunmen.

The new turn of events apparently switched official attention momentarily from the maze of older but so far fruitless leads adduced through questioning of the couple's many friends in New York's night club society set.

Earlier, police again summoned George Riales, friend of the late Metropolitan Opera singer Rafaelo Diaz, at one time a protege of Mrs. Langford. Riales had been questioned 18 hours early Tuesday after it was learned that the two mysterious gunmen had mentioned Diaz' name before killing Langford.

The theory still persists that Langford's slayers expected to collect money from him or Mrs. Langford or possibly to rob her of jewelry believed worth more than $100,000 which Mrs. Langford is said to have insisted keeping in the apartment.

Vilma Kempton Mrs. Albert E. Langford

One angle on which police were unofficially said to be working was a report that Mrs. Langford had a recording device installed in the apartment, possibly for protection against extortion demands.

A ledger among her effects indicates she responded generously to pleas for financial aid. One account showed a $15,000 payment and others showed she has given a number of individuals amounts running into the thousands.

Reed Lawton, singer and impresario of a light opera company now in the Middle West and whose name appears in the ledger was reported on his way to New York voluntarily to offer the in-

Lady Astor Called a Gas Bag!

LONDON, June 7 (AP)—Aneurin Bevan, the former butcher boy and Welsh coal miner who became a Laborite member of Parliament, called Lady Astor "an old gas bag" in Commons today.

"Oh, dear," the noble lady from Virginia and Plymouth replied.

Bevan was protesting that Parliament had not sanctioned subsides to encourage house building when Lady Astor made an audible comment.

"Shut up!" went up the cry from the Labor benches.

Lady Astor, 65 and a staunch Conservative, jumped to her feet and appealed to the presiding officer:

"Why does Mr. Bevan expect complete silence when he repeats himself a hundred times?"

Bevan retorted:

"It really is intolerable when this old gas bag gets up and gabbles away."

Salem Bus Strike Ends

Striking Salem bus drivers voted today to end a six-day wildcat walkout after they were informed fellow union members in 10 other divisions of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway had decided by a majority of 139 votes to accept compromise contract proposals and avert a threatened general strike.

John H. Cullen, president of the Salem local of the Amalgamated Ass'n of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Operators, promised restoration of normal service on the division by 4 p. m.

The other 10 divisions balloted yesterday in a referendum from which the striking Salem operators were excluded, and the tally announced today by John F. O'Brien of Lawrence, international vice-president, was 672 in favor of accepting the compromise and 533 for rejection.

All Yalta Deals Told--Churchill

By JAMES F. KING

LONDON, June 7 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill told Commons today the Big Three made no secret agreements at Yalta that had not been made public, but indicated discussions covered a wider field than decisions officially announced.

Laborites asked specifically why differences had arisen over broadening the Polish government—an issue many believed settled at Yalta.

"There were no secret engagements entered into at all" except the agreement to give Russia three votes at San Francisco, Churchill assured Parliament. He added significantly:

"The conversations, of course, proceeded in a very intimate manner and I am not prepared to say that everything discussed at Yalta could be made the subject of a verbatim report."

The Big Three at Yalta were Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin.

Churchill's statement was made against a background of anxiety here the Big Three leaders had left their last conference in the Crimea with varying interpretations of decisions reached there. Sections of the British press and critics of Churchill's foreign policy have pointed specifically to the deadlock over the Polsh issue and to the differences at the San Francisco conference.

Moscow has insisted repeatedly Russia was abiding by Yalta decisions both as to broadening the Polish government at Warsaw and on every stand taken at San Francisco.

30 Days as 'Nazi PW' --Proves He's Yank

FRAMINGHAM, June 7 (AP)—A 27-year-old American soldier spent the "30 most harrowing days" of his life when he was captured by his own troops and held as a wounded "German" prisoner of war.

Cpl. Gilbert J. Beamesderfer of Ephrata, Pa., a Cushing General Hospital patient recently granted a 90-day work furlough was a squad leader in the 35th Division of the Third Army before events became too confused for comfort.

Cpl. Gilbert J. Beamesderfer

He remembered leading his men against a German machine-gun nest in France and being hit in the left arm. Then, apparently, he got mixed up with captured Germans and when he awoke he was in a hospital. He asked a nurse when he was to be operated on and she gasped: "Wherever did you learn to speak such good English?"

Just before they gave him ether, a surgeon spoke to him reassuringly—in German. Beamesderfer grinned and answered in the enemy language.

Hours later he awoke among a group of Germans. An American lieutenant passed by, and Beamesderfer asked: "What happened? Have we been captured?"

"Be quiet," the lieutenant said. "You're all right. You're with your buddies."

"Buddies, hell!" Beamesderfer screamed. "Get me out of here! I'm an American!"

The officer smiled and left. Germans posing as Americans were nothing new. After 10 days in France, the prisoners, including Beamesderfer, were transferred to a POW camp in England. Finally he managed to nab an interrogator.

"I'll tell you things about Pennsylvania that no one could tell you unless he'd actually been there," Beamesderfer said desperately. "If you have someone from there, let him talk to me."

They called in a Philadelphia nurse. He told her about the unique customs of the Amish, descendants of German settlers of eastern Pennsylvania. The nurse was impressed.

Camp officials cabled Washington for his fingerprints. They established Beamesderfer as Beamesderfer. On the 30th day of his imprisonment an officer burst into his tent and announced:

"I am happy to inform you that you're an American at last!"

P.T.A. Opposes Peacetime Draft

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—The National Congress of Parents and Teachers urged today peacetime draft legislation not be enacted "at this time."

Mrs. William A. Hastings, Madison, Wis., president of the organization claiming a membership of 3,500,000, told the House postwar military policy committee PTA's stand was determined after full discussion with the members.

Delay in consideration of draft legislation was also urged by the Catholic Hierarchy in the United States.

The views of Catholic Archbishops and Bishops were stated in a letter to Chairman Woodrum (D.) of Virginia, from Mgr. Howard J. Carroll, General Secretary of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

Surprise Call For Huddle by Reds at Parley

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7 (AP)—Russia called today for the second Big Five huddle in as many days. But there was no official intimation of any Soviet-sponsored break in the deadlocked veto issue.

Soviet sources have said flatly they expect no further word from Moscow on the dispute between Russia and the other Big Four on interpretation of the Yalta voting agreement. The Russians insist the Yalta formula gives each of the Big Five powers the right to veto discussions of an international dispute in a world security council.

But there was some inclination among American delegates to bring the question before the Big Five even if the Russians do not broach it.

United States delegates said there is nothing of importance left for the Big Five to discuss unless it is the Yalta voting procedure or some other question which has not yet assumed major proportions.

If Moscow continues silent on the veto controversy, the whole disagreement may turn toward an open fight in the United Nations Conference, with the prospect Russia would be defeated.

PARIS, June 7 (AP)—Authoritative quarters said today the French government had formally invited other members of the Big Five to participate in a conference on the Middle East.

BUENOS AIRES, June 7 (INS)—The government today had lifted its ban on all suppressed Argentine magazines, newspapers and other publications. All newspaper men seized for political reasons were said to have been released.

Urges Port Bond Issue Be Speeded

Urging legislators to think in terms of the vast expenditure needed to modernize the Port of Boston, Rep. John H. Carroll urged the House ways and means committee today to recommend speedy action on a $15,000,000 bond issue for immediate harbor development.

"This amount of money is picayune in comparison to the amount which will be needed to put Boston on an equal footing with other eastern seaboard ports in postwar years," Carroll declared. "It probably will be enough to build two modern and adequately equipped piers.

"The New York port made the State of New York but only because there they thought in terms of hundreds of dollars while we have been thinking in terms of nickels and dimes. We shouldn't expect too much for $15,000,000 and we must be ready to spend more."

Melville D. Liming, director of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, told the committee it was "now or never" if Boston and New England expected to hold their own and develop in the postwar competition for shipping and foreign trade.

Laurence F. Whittermore, assistant to the president of the Boston & Maine, pointed out development of the port would create more employment but warned that delay in the expansion might well result in a "too little and too late" situation.

Albert T. J. Woll, of the W. M. Newton Co., Boston, said Massachusetts bonds were a good investment and sought eagerly by investors, which made it possible for the State to borrow money at a tremendously low rate of interest.

Lawrence Wife Charges Cruelty

LAWRENCE, June 7—Asserting her husband had knocked her off crutches when she was recovering from an accident and that she had suffered two nervous breakdowns as a result of his alleged cruelties, Mrs. Alice Thompson of Barker st., Methuen, asked $20 weekly separate support today in Essex Probate Court.

Her husband, Lewis, who is living apart from her in Lawrence, took the stand to give a general denial of her allegations and testified he had always provided for her and their daughter. He charged she was a "nagging" wife. They were married in 1906.

Judge John A. Costello took the case under advisement.

TWO YEARS IN VET THEFT

Pleading guilty in Suffolk Superior Court today to a charge of stealing $340 from Maj. Vaughan A. Shaw, recently liberated from a Jap prison camp, Walter J. Gomes, 25, of Cliff st., Roxbury, was sentenced to two years in the house of correction by Judge Brown.

Hit Drunkenness Among Children

One of every eight juveniles arrested in South Boston is charged with drunkenness, Miss Katherine Lyford, secretary of the Massachusetts Civic League, said today in advocating establishment of a permanent commission for the study of alcoholism.

Telling the legislative public health committee the problem was a new one in Massachusetts, she blamed drunkenness on parents and "easy war money."

Judge Joseph T. Zottoli, chairman of the special commission studying alcoholism, and Dr. Clifton T. Perkins, state mental health commissioner, urged establishment of special hospital facilities for treating alcoholics.

Sen. Joseph F. Montminy of Lowell recommended abolition of "glorified booze joints" and return to the "old days of the saloon" as a step toward solving the problem.

Fined on 1934 Liquor Charge

The long arm of the law, reaching out for more than a decade, touched Walter K. Kaner, formerly of Lynn, and today he was found guilty in Lynn Court of illegally keeping and selling liquor in 1934.

Two principals in the case, the officer who arrested him 11 years ago and the man who led to the arrest by making the purchase are long since dead.

Despite the deaths, other members of the liquor and vice squad pressed the case and served the 11-year-old warrant when Kaner was found in Boston last week.

Kaner, who disappeared after his arrest in 1934, told the court the matter had been on his mind ever since and always expected "to come back and stand trial."

He paid a fine of $200 for illegally keeping liquor while the selling charge was filed.

PAIR HELD AS DODGERS

Wanted in New York State on charges of evading the draft, Meryl O., 23, and Victor E. Willhite, 25, brothers, of Pulaski, N. Y., were araigned today before Comsr. Rogers.

They were held in $100 each for return to New York State.

Boston today entered its seventh meatless week with crowds gathered in the downtown market district long before stores were due to open. At 7 a. m. today, a long triple line headed by three sailors, and extending a full block on North st., was already waiting before a beef firm which was not scheduled to open its doors until 8:30.

The word was whispered that this firm nearly always has some kind of fresh meats on sale and these crowds had come from every surrounding suburb after they had fruitlessly searched their own neighborhood for meats or poultry.

In near-by Fulton st. another double line was already extending clear around the block, waiting for a poultry firm to open.

They waited patiently that early in the morning, knowing it would be hours before they could get into the store and uncertain if supplies would hold out until their turn came.

Before the same shop yesterday, one young girl stood in line from eight in the morning until 4:15 in the afternoon, when she finally reached the head of the line only to have the doors closed in her face as all supplies had been drained.

A count showed that it took four hours for 105 persons to be served. Some of the more elderly housewives who hoped to get anything at all, even frankfurts or hamburg for their family's Sunday dinner, had brought sandwiches for lunch and ate them on the spot during their long vigil.

As the day wore on most of the crowd milled helplessly from store to store. Few of them had anything to sell and those few were so mobbed they were afraid to put what they had on their counters, preferring to dole it out from the back ice boxes to their regular customers.

The majority of the stores already had their slender stocks made up into packages waiting to be called for.

Meanwhile, the OPA sent out a notice saying that Chester Bowles, OPA administrator, was putting into effect a new program, beginning June 17, to insure "more uniform distribution of the present short supply of meat."

Beginning on that date, it requires all slaughterers to resume the same pattern of distribution they have followed in the first three months of 1944.

But the public should not expect an immediate added supply of meat in shortage areas. It will take a little while to get the distribution plan into full operation," the announcement said.

Watching the crowds getting angry as their supplies vanished, retailers predicted that unless more immediate relief is sent to this highly critical area, trouble will develop. "And sooner than you think," warned a few of them who shut their doors rather than face the resentment of the disappointed meat-hungry.

Army to Keep Food Flowing to Europe

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—The Army will keep its food pipelines to Europe flowing chockful through mid-summer despite the end of the war there.

A law-maker made this disclosure today with the observation the policy may cushion the effect of a recent decision to halt all third-quarter foreign relief and Lend-Lease food shipments.

The chief reason, he said, is to supply troop transports being used to shift fighting men back to this country and to the Pacific.

2 Held in Attack On Model, 21, On Lonely Road

PHILADELPHIA, June 7 (AP)—Two men were held today on statutory charges after Penelope Baker, 21 [illegible] model, a Philadelphia girl living at the Barbizon Plaza hotel in New York, told of being attacked on a lonely road during an automobile ride Monday night.

The men, Jack Arbruzzo, 26, and Peter Bacino, 20, also were charged with attempted robbery and aggravated assault and battery.

Detectives said Miss Baker declared she was at her sister's home when Bacino and Arbruzzo called. They asked if she would accompany Bacino to drive Arbruzzo home. Instead, they parked in a sparsely settled section and Arbruzzo struck her. She screamed and managed to get out of the car but was forced back by Bacino. Later she was released in another section where a motorist found her dazed and sobbing.

Training should include "shooting and throwing hand grenades, and death-defying charges and bodily attacks against tanks."

Reich Zone Mixup Halts Allied Meeting

LONDON, June 7 (AP)—Further meetings of the Allied Control Council for Germany were being held up today by lack of agreement on the French zone of occupation and a Moscow commentator blamed the western Allies for the "muddle" in getting the administrative machinery in operation.

Correspondents at the meeting of the control council Tuesday said the Russians were unwilling to hold further meetings until Americans and British have withdrawn from the Russian zone.

The Americans and British, on the other hand, wished to know their exact zones before beginning troop movements.

A Foreign Office spokesman declined to comment on the accuracy of a map published in Moscow yesterday purporting to outline the Russian zone.

The London Times said the Moscow announcement had been received "with some surprise."

"Though it is not questioned that the Russian zone is substantially as shown, it is felt the statement should have been a joint one, and would have come more fittingly from the control council in Berlin."

The map shows the Russians will occupy about half of Germany.

Act to Dam Leaks As FBI Seizes 6

WASHINGTON, June 8 (INS)—The State Department announced today it is conducting a campaign to stop leaks of confidential and secret government information. Announcement followed the arrest last night of six persons on espionage charges in connection with theft of "highly confidential documents."

In disclosing the drive the department said no attempt had been or would be made to impose a gag on the press. But made it plain the department does not want information to become public that is not officially disclosed.

Acting Secretary of State Grew told a special news confeernce the arrests were "one result of a comprehensive security program to stop completely the illegal and disloyal conveyance of confidential and secret information to unauthorized persons."

It was made clear publication of confidential memoranda, such as made last year by a columnist when he disclosed the text of a report on India by Ambassador William Phillips, would come within the scope of investigations.

Nation's Fruit Crops Hard Hit by Cold

By FRANCES SPATZ

WASHINGTON, June 7 (INS) —The current freak cold spell, it was revealed today, has caused fruit crop damages ranging from 40 to 75 per cent over the eastern, middle western and north central parts of the United States.

Reports to the Agriculture Department from various areas show the nation's apple crop will be slashed 75,000,000 bushels, as compared with 1944's 125,000,000 bushels. The 1945 apple crop will be even less than the pronounced shortage year 1943, when the yield was 89,000,000 bushels.

In New England it is estimated damage to apple trees will cut the crop in half, while in Virginia and Pennsylvania only 25 per cent of the normal yield is expected.

Peaches were also hard hit. Reports to the Agriculture Department show New York, Ohio and Michigan anticipate 60 per cent of their full crop while Virginia expects 50 per cent and Maryland 25 per cent.

New York's 1945 sour cherries, important in canning and wine making, have been "wiped out."

The Concord grape crop has been frosted to an approximately 20 to 25 per cent of normal in Ohio, eastern New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Michigan.

Other fruits affected by the unseasonal cold are pears in Michigan and the eastern states, and plums and prunes in the East and Middle East.

vestigators whatever help he could.

At his New York home, Lawton's wife said she knew Mrs. Langford had given her husband money.

"I don't know how much," she added. "She was free in giving lots of money to other people. She is a brilliant, vivacious woman.

"We visited the Langfords about once a week. Sometimes we went to parties with them but they were mostly quiet, social evenings. Mr. Langford was a very unassuming man—he wouldn't hurt a fly."

There are 29 other names in addition to Lawton's in the ledger, which has entries covering a long period with names, addresses, dates and amounts of money paid, all in Mrs. Langford's handwriting. There was no notation of any money paid back to her.

In addition to young artists and others, names of Hotel Marguery employes appear in the ledger with notations of frequent tips of $25 to $50. Also listed are names of various organizations, to which Mrs. Langford made philanthropic contributions.

Meanwhile the body of Langford, who at one time was said to have boasted that he sold more men's shirts than anyone else in the country, lay in an undertaking parlor where private services will be held tomorrow.

The theories of extortion and blackmail had first been brought to attention of authorities when they questioned, among the many celebrities who were friends of the Langfords, the once famous Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, stage beauty of the early 1900's, and herself a central figure in the most spectacular murder of her day—the slaying by her millionaire husband, Harry K. Thaw, of Stanford White, nationally noted architect.

Miss Nesbit, as she is now known, was questioned, police emphasized, only because she happened to be an acquaintance of Mrs. Langford. In the course of questioning, however, Miss Nesbit revealed that twice in the past year Mrs. Langford had been forced to call police when an unidentified man made demands on her for money.

Miss Nesbit said she herself was with Mrs. Langford when one of these demands was made, but could not identify the would-be extortioner.

Miss Nesbit was questioned for only 15 minutes, but longer questioning was in store for James Delamater, elevator operator at the hotel, who told police he had taken two dark men to the floor of the Langford apartment on the night of the slaying, and only a few minutes before Langford was found slumped in death, shot with a bullet that ploughed through his cheek and severed an artery in his neck.

Delamater insisted that although he had taken the two men up in the elevator, he had not taken them down, nor had he seen them after they got off at the floor where the Langford apartment is located. Servants and employes throughout the hotel declared they had seen no such persons leaving by service or rear exits. Yet the two men escaped—into mystery.

Mrs. Langford is the daughter of Joseph Mayer of Buffalo, N. Y., a 90-year-old former public utilities financier, now retired. He lives on the 12th floor of Hotel Marguery and was reported to allot his daughter a personal allowance of $3000 a month. This, supplemented by funds supplied by her wealthy husband, enabled Mrs. Langford to indulge her enthusiasm for art, music and the theater, and to become a benefactress of scores of singers, artists and ambitious thespians.

With nearly 100 persons questioned within the first 24 hours following Langford's murder, officials were prepared to question at least 70 others.

Allen Comedy At Majestic

By PEGGY DOYLE

The plot to get Fred Allen on to celluloid turns out to be a thoroughly corny but undeniably comical dodge to bring back vaudeville alive.

Fred Allen

For Jack H. Skirball's Allen-starring production of "It's in the Bag," unreeling crazily on the Majestic screen, switches a plot for a succession of vaudeville skits and "guest star" appearances.

This blueplate special of corn, lunacy, Allen's own copyrighted blend of wit, murders and more corn is generously laced with a variety of comedy contributed by such notable "guest stars" as Jack Benny, Rudy Vallee, Victor Moore, Don Ameche and Jerry Colonna.

Allen, who'll have no nonsense with tedium, doesn't wait for the lineup of cast members and credits to get out of the way, but is in there belittling from the initial footage. His gagging "precede" alone is worth the price of admission.

Although Fred does an Allen-sized job throughout, the story does not begin to use this great comedian's great talents. It is about a flea circus operator, Fred Floogle, who inherits a surprise inheritance of $12,000,000 from a granduncle and then finds that the money has been hidden in one of half a dozen chairs that have been sold to as many unknown buyers. Mrs. Nussbaum (Minerva Pious of the Allen broadcasts) makes her film debut as one of the purchasers.

The Mrs. Nussbaum sequence the one in which Allen rips radio's notorious penny-pincher, Jack Benny, the singing waiter footage involving Vallee, Moore and Ameche and Jerry Colonna's impersonation of a wacky psychiatrist are good for the belly-laughs you've been missing since Boston's and the nation's favorite radio wit took a vacation from the air-waves.

William Bendix, as a tender-hearted boss racketeer who has inherited a "gang" from his mother, and young Dickie Tyler, as Fred Floogle Allen's quiz-kid son, Homer, distinguish themselves.

'Flame of the Barbary Coast' on Twin Screens

In a pretentious observance of its 10th anniversary, Republic Pictures is releasing its most lavish production, "Flame of the Barbary Coast," in 2500 screens throughout the country this week.

The studio's $1,500,000 baby opened at the Paramount and Fenway Theaters yesterday, just a decade after its initial release, a modestly budgeted John Wayne starrer, was first shown.

Since 1935, Republic has been steadily advancing, averaging annually 50-odd releases, mostly Westerns and mellers, rarely exceeding an output of $300,000 a piece.

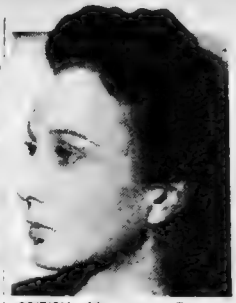
It would be pleasant to report that "Flame of the Barbary Coast," which stars Wayne for sentimental and boxoffice purposes, hits the jackpot. From us to you, it is just another of the season's Fords, in which producer Joseph Kane proves that money is no substitute for taste, experience and originality.

Producer-director Kane has assembled an excellent cast with Ann Dvorak, Joseph Schildkraut, Virginia Grey and William Frawley as Wayne's co-stars. But the overworked script is such a pale carbon copy of an assortment of familiar films that the stars' admittedly first-rate performances are not enough.

There is an earthquake sequence that rings the bell on Metro's memorable San Francisco 'quake saga and has you questing for Clark Gable and Jeanette MacDonald among the tumbling walls and the flaming debris. Like its can-can line, its pre-'quake Barbary Coast atmosphere and its cowboy-flame romance, Republic's earthquake hasn't a patch on MGM's.

Wayne, as the Montana cattleman whose torch eventually nets him the Barbary Coast boss-ship, plays with lusty vitality. In her first screen appearance since she drove an ambulance for the British Red Cross, Miss Dvorak does a type switcheroo in the title role and is enticingly credible.

Schildkraut's gentleman gambler is one of the smoothest screen portrayals. The customarily languid Virginia Grey turns in a surprise performance as the "I've got baby blue eyes" blonde siren with larceny in her heart. P. D.



BRITISH film star, Googie Withers, plays opposite Ralph Richardson, in "The Silver Fleet," one of the finest topical melodramas to come out of England and now showing on the Exeter screen. Googie's mother was Dutch and Googie means crazy in Dutch, if you care.

LIVING MEMORIALS TO WAR DEAD

SEVERAL WEEKS ago we suggested that trees be planted throughout New England as living memorials to the heroic men who have lost their lives in this war.

Now we are pleased to learn that many cities and towns have adopted the proposal and that others will follow their good example.

As D. C. Russell pointed out in the March issue of Good Housekeeping Magazine, "the planter of trees may have little hope to benefit from them personally, but the people who come after him can rest in their shade. Even after dust has returned to dust, there is some happiness in the thought that it might be contributing to life in finite and infinite ways."

Our soldier and sailor sons died to make the world a happier and better place.

Trees, much more than graven tombstones, will preserve and perpetuate that ideal.

Let us have and enjoy them, particularly the matchless elms, oaks and maples which thrive in our New England climate.

WHY PAY MORE?

MANY important organizations, including the Boston Chamber of Commerce, are protesting against increased cable rates for messages sent from New England to Great Britain and Europe.

They contend that the higher charges were put into effect by the Federal Communications Commission on May 1 without advance notice. Therefore, they insist, the case should be reopened and the whole situation reconsidered.

Boston is more than two hundred miles nearer than New York to the major cities of Britain and Europe.

Obviously, less wire and probably less power are required to send a message from Boston to London than from New York to London.

Why, then, should we have to pay more?

THAT STAMP!

HOPEFUL Americans who supposed that the five-dollar automobile use tax stamp was dead will be disappointed.

The stamp is very much alive. It is being readied for sale at all postoffices and must appear on every motorist's windshield by July 1.

The law imposing this unjustified tax on the driving public was generally condemned from the day of its adoption.

But the law survived all the opposition.

Persons who are glibly proposing new taxes of an emergency nature should remember this unhappy experience.

Once placed on the statute books, a tax is almost never repealed.

GOOD WORK

IN CO-OPERATION with the Record-American-Advertiser youth guidance campaign, the Norwood Catholic Women's Club and the Norwood Council, K. of C., recently sponsored dancing classes for teen-age boys and girls.

Such were the benefits that Mrs. Mary J. Murphy, president of the club, now says:

"Unbelievable as it may seem, with a total attendance of 1670 young people, we have not had a single problem concerning behavior, and after 24 weeks we feel that the children have gained much from our project. Not only did they improve in dancing but they acquired a more natural poise in social manners, and a better acceptance of boy and girl associations."

Mrs. Murphy and her co-workers deserve praise and support.

They are combatting juvenile delinquency in a provenly practical manner.

This is a puppy love song,
Dearest
The words are all for you
The only woman in the world
I could sing it to
That's why I pray St. Peter
Will not call us to his shore,
Until I've sung my song of love
For thirty glad years more
But when Gabriel blows his trumpet,
As in time he will we know
You'll still be my sweetheart
And I your beau.

THE ABOVE tribute to his wife was the author's first attempt at poetry. It was written on his 30th wedding anniversary . . . Eight San Francisco girls have formed a "We Wanna Get Married Club" and asked the advice of our Mules & Men Department on how to get husbands. We think the advice of our M & M experts on this matter is good. That is, under ordinary circumstances. However, to believe it potent enough to get a San Francisco bachelor into double harness is probably rating it too high. There is something about the atmosphere of San Francisco which makes a man very reluctant to relinquish his liberty. The single men of that city are the hardest-to-get bachelors in the world. Not only that, it is said even after most San Franciscans are married they remain bachelors at heart. They make good husbands, are loyal and loving but every now and then a melancholy gleam similar to that of a caged eagle can be seen in their eyes.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, June 7—It seemed to be agreed that the people of the United States need millions of new houses, whether apartments in tenements or detached dwellings each on its own plot. That is one of the few propositions, possibly the only one, on which there is unanimity.

Westbrook Pegler

It is a bleak little patch of understanding, however, and surrounded by a wilderness of jealousy, suspicion and selfishness as well as practical problems.

We have the market, the materials, the human ability to produce these homes and a potential ability to pay for them to the extent that the American people might have in the near future the best homes in the world.

However, much of the emergency wartime "housing," arranged in colonies around great temporary industrial works, such as shipyards and airplane factories, is Jerry-built and would be deserted soon after the defeat of the Japanese even if it were not due to come apart anyway.

It was slapped together and wasn't intended to last and, in many cases, the permanent communities in which these "projects" were planted regard them as unsightly blights and social threats.

* * *

SO WE HAVE in addition to the need for housing in appropriate places where peace-time industry will offer reasonably steady work, a problem of relocating displaced peoples in our own country comparable in some respects to the same problem in Europe.

Henry Kaiser recently breezed into a conference on housing held in New York, waved his arms in a few magic passes and remarked olt the end of his tongue that he had been studying this situation and that, as soon as we can turn our energies to it, we can start a housing industry similar in its helpful effect on earnings, employment and convenience to the boom in the production of automobiles after the first war.

But, and here Mr. Kaiser stabbed a finger at a sore spot without trying to find out what makes it hurt, costs would have to be reduced.

WHEN THURMAN ARNOLD was an Assistant Attorney-General in charge of the Anti-Trust Division, his studies showed beyond argument that one of the most important reasons why a carpenter, for example, couldn't own a home was that, as a carpenter employed in building homes, he imposed wasteful and expensive rules and customs on the building industry. The carpenter would not handle cabinet-work, such as kitchen cabinets, which had been put together in mass production at a mill.

The electrician was in the same fix. His union had convinced him that it was to his advantage to shun as hot cargo electrical devices imported whole from a factory in another city, even though they had been assembled by fellow-members of his own union.

The painters rejected materials which had been painted at the factory and refused to handle some articles in which panes of glass had been set by factory labor, the glaziers being union brothers of the painters.

* * *

AT THIS POINT it is appropriate to touch upon the close conspiracies of the master-plumbers and electricians and the contractors in league with them, who impose exorbitant and arbitrary sur-charges and kickbacks on the cost of materials and even put through ordinances and State laws Balkanizing villages and counties so that the privileged local magnates enjoy monopolies on local business.

A group of four or five local plumbing contractors in a village will persuade a town council to pass an exclusion act in the dark of the moon which compels any contractor from over the town line from taking a job in their community until he passes a written examination and pays a license fee of from $50 to $500.

The local contractors are the examiners with arbitrary power to flunk the intruder in his test subject to no appeal, and even if the outsider might pass his test, he must add to the cost of the job the price of the fee and the cost of a day's time devoted to the examination.

All these artificial and unnecessary costs must be reckoned in the price of each of those millions of new homes.

In the end it comes down to this—that the public is not asked to pay part of the purchase price or the rent of these new homes but to pay tribute to artisans, contractors and great manufacturing companies whose impositions run up the cost beyond the reasonable ability of homeless people to pay.

WASHINGTON, June 7—While Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, the homely and unglamorous gentlewoman from Connecticut, was in Rome recently she got a telephone call from Doris Duke. They gave each other big "hello darlings!" as unglamorous dolls usually do, and Mrs. Luce told the tobacco heiress to hop into a car and come right over.

Clare Boothe Luce

"A car!" echoed Miss Duke, who is often called the richest girl in the world and other things, "I have no way of getting a car. But I'll trundle right over on my bicycle."

When the brave girl cyclist arrived, she found Mrs. Luce conferring with an Army captain. The warrior was a sterling fellow, no doubt, but he was neither young nor particularly prepossessing; in other words, nothing for a doll to palpitate over.

Nevertheless, Miss Duke turned on the charm full blast. She practically ogled the poor guy, who had probably never had a dame go ga-ga over him in years, much less an heiress with $150,000,000.

Mrs. Luce noted this interesting phenomenon, as dames will, but forbore comment. Finally, Miss Duke gave the warrior a last languishing glance, as if she couldn't bear being exposed to so much masculine appeal any longer, and tore herself away.

A few days later Mrs. Luce heard from Miss Duke again. Eaten with curiosity, the Congresswoman said:

"Have you heard anything from our captain friend?"

"Oh yes," trilled Miss Duke. "We had dinner together last night and the night before, too!"

"For goodness sakes!" exclaimed Mrs. Luce. "Would you mind telling me what on earth you saw in him?"

"Why," burbled the heiress, "he's simply divine! And he was extremely helpful in getting me some K-rations!"

★ ★ ★

EXPLANATION: The only reason I referred to Mrs. Luce as "homely and unglamorous" is that she insists upon it. She still maintains that no woman over 40 has glamor. However, whatever it is Mrs. Luce has, I'll take an extra dozen!

I have not heard from Miss Duke on the subject of glamor. But she wouldn't put herself above the gentlewoman from Connecticut, would she?

MR. G. RAY TERRELL, the deceptionist, now appearing at the Statler, has a letter from Maj. Henry S. Aurand of the Army special services, ordering all whom it might concern not to interfere with his rabbits.

It seems Mr. Terrell tried to board a bus for a Southern Army camp where he was scheduled to do a show. The bus driver saw the rabbits and said he had explicit orders against carrying livestock.

Seeing he was going to get nowhere with arguments, Mr. Terrell took the rabbits from their cage and put them into a box. He closed the box, then opened it again before the eyes of the astounded bus driver. The rabbits had vanished!

The driver got out, searched Mr. Terrell and belongings, and finally—convinced the rabbits had somehow disintegrated into thin air—drove the magician to the camp, where Mr. Terrell miraculously produced his rabbits.

★ ★ ★

INCIDENTALLY, Mr. Terrell arrived in Washington with two rabbits. Now he has eight. No magic.

RECENTLY, I reported that the Senate Post Office does not issue money orders and that Senators desiring same have to go to the House. I have just been set right about this by Mr. Jack W. Gates, the distinguished postmaster of the Senate.

Mr. Gates said it is true that no money orders are issued in the small Senate branch office in the Capitol itself but that between $30,000 and $40,000 worth a month are issued in the big branch in the Senate Office building.

I also implied that the House Post Office did more work than the Senate Post Office because there are more Representatives than Senators. Again, Mr. Gates has put me straight.

It seems that Senators have more mail than Congressmen. And here's an interesting sidelight:

Senators send out more letters than they receive. The Senatorial outgoing mail averages 75,000 letters a day; incoming mail only 65,000.

When a great controversial issues arises, however, the incoming mail skyrockets. Mr. Gates said the greatest mail deluge in his time was when President Roosevelt tried to pack the Supreme Court. For weeks, the mail from constituents averaged 165,000 letters a day!

I would like to be able to tell you how much mail is handled daily by the House Post Office, but Postmaster Finis E. Scott said he does not keep any check.

The biggest mail influx he can remember was over the "Ham and Eggs, or $30 Every Thursday" plan for the more abundant life.

Weddings With Salad

By MARTHA LEE

WEDDINGS ARE apt to be hasty affairs these days, hasty because so often there's little time to plan the details, invite the guests and arrange for the thousand and one things that must be done.

If it's a home wedding, the wise bride will have a small one and invite only members of the families and a few friends to the reception. She will keep every detail simple as possible.

Refreshments should not be elaborate. Molded salads are good and look pretty, too. They can be made ahead of time, and if there should be a delay in the appointed hour, they can be kept without fear of destroying flavor or appearance. At the last moment they will just need to be unmolded and garnished. Often, when time is a consideration, just a wedding cake and a punch will be sufficient to serve.

CHICKEN AND TONGUE LOAF

Gelatin base
1 tbsp. lemon juice
Small tongue, thinly sliced
2 cups cooked chicken, cut up
2 tbsp. parsley, finely minced
1 cup celery, finely diced
½ cup mayonnaise

Prepare gelatin base; add lemon juice and chill until partially set. Rinse a loaf pan or ring mold with cold water; arrange slices of tongue on the bottom, slightly overlapping. Put in enough of the jelly to cover the slices; chill until firm. Fold chicken, parsley, celery and mayonnaise into the remaining jelly. Turn into the mold on top of the tongue slices. Chill until firm. Unmold on a bed of chicory or escarole. Garnish with ripe olives and radish roses. Serve with mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

GELATIN BASE FOR SALADS

1 tbsp. gelatin
1½ cups bouillon or soup stock, well seasoned
2 tsp. onion, grated

Soften the gelatin in ¼ cup of the cold bouillon or soup stock. Heat the remaining stock to boiling; add softened gelatin and stir until dissolved; add grated onion or other desired seasonings.

Lemon-Flavored Gelatin — Lemon-flavored gelatin, dissolved in 1½ cups water, with the addition of vinegar and seasonings to taste, may be used instead of the above.

A punch is excellent for serving a number of people, and is easily made from any number of fruit combinations. For added flavor and sparkle, make your punch with sparkling water. Since it contains no sugar, sparkling water is not on the scarce-item list. Here is a simple punch, made with sparkling water, using tea as a base.

SPARKLING TEA PUNCH

½ cup strong hot tea
1 cup corn syrup
1 cups orange juice
½ cup lemon juice
2 qts. sparkling water

Combine tea and corn syrup and set until corn syrup dissolves. Chill. Add fruit juices and pour over ice in punch bowl. Just before serving, add sparkling water and float orange and lime slices on top. Makes 25 punch cup servings.

Simple to prepare, this inviting champagne claret punch lends a note of glamor to any party. This recipe makes 25 to 30 servings.

CHAMPAGNE CLARET PUNCH

1 tbsp. sugar
Juice of 1 lemon
1 tsp. maraschino syrup
Half 5-oz. can rind
2 bottles claret
2 bottles champagne
2 bottles sparkling water

Shred the lemon rind into punch bowl and add sugar. Add lemon juice and maraschino syrup; stir well. Place a large square block of ice in punch bowl and add, well chilled, the pineapple, water, claret and champagne. Stir just enough to mix well. Dress top with fruit in season and serve.

New Cream Mask for Loveliness

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

NOT ALL OF US can or want to aspire to the title of "all-over beauty of all time" . . . but we'd like just a little corner of such acclaim to keep us in the swim of things in our own sphere of activity. For a pretty girl is still like a melody . . . no matter how you sing it.

Recently 42 of the nation's top artist-illustrators and 23 South American members of the International Artists Committee selected amber-red haired, blue-green eyed, peaches-and-cream complexioned Arleen Whelan as the "all-over beauty of all time" for "beauty that surpasses Venus de Milo" . . . and a load of loveliness she is from the top of her head to the tip of her toes . . . as you can see in the accompanying picture.

COSMETIC DELIGHT

Such exquisite coloring . . . such divine complexion flawlessness . . . and such a silhouette got Arleen . . . now co-starring in "Oh, Brother!" at the Plymouth . . . her first movie job. For how could such beauty go amiss and unclaimed?

And remembering her blue-green eyes fluttering brilliantly from an alabaster expanse of facial perfection . . . we think of another perfection . . . a cosmetic delight . . . and like Arleen go utterly new kind of masque which we're sure will go a long way in reviving your complexion . . . lifting it from the doldrums of dull drabness to the excitement of smooth radiance and softness.

For usually the face rules the silhouette . . . like a flower poised on a graceful stem. We're mask-minded. We think it should be a weekly ritual . . . once or twice a week. We're certain it stimulates and helps the complexion . . . forcing it to drop skin problems and pick up the glow of youth, lovely youth.

STAYS MOIST, COOL

If you'd like a completely new and delightful experience in the care of your skin . . . let me tell you about a mask which looks like pistachio mousse and is just as delectable to the complexion. It feels like a cream . . . it acts as a mask. And this particular fragrant cream mask . . . unlike any you have ever used, we wager, because it feels like a cooling mint julep on the face . . . stays moist, cool and fragrant on your skin.

Spread it on . . . and then feel its gentle frosty-cool fingers contracting your pores . . . smoothing away surface toughness . . . making lines and wrinkles less noticeable. See how much clearer, freshened, radiant . . . young to the eye, petal-smooth to the touch . . . your complexion is . . . and bask in the glory of the new facial YOU.

For the name of this new kind of cream mask, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

AMBER-RED hair, blue-green eyes, a peaches-and-cream complexion, and a divine silhouette add up to Arleen Whelan, star of "Oh, Brother!" . . . and recently selected as the "all-over beauty of all time." And, don't think Arleen . . . who has eclipsed Venus' standing as a historical beauty . . . doesn't work at perpetuating the loveliness which a kind Providence endowed her with. Let a delightful and utterly new kind of pistachio-colored mask give your complexion a beauty boost.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, Wednesday—For a long time I have been concerned about our migratory farm workers, who move from place to place following the crops wherever there is need for their labor. I read in the paper the other day a report on conditions in some of the camps for these workers in New York State, and I must say, when I have seen some of the places in which families are expected to live, or even just the barracks where we expect the workers themselves to be housed, I am filled with shame.

* * *

IF THESE workers have children, how do those children get an education? It would really make sense if schools were organized to move with them. As it is now, many of these children, if they go to school at all, go sporadically for a few months here and a few there, and there is no continuity in what they learn. It is from their ranks that we recruit a goodly number of our illiterates.

* * *

SINCE the war and the emergency seasonal work done on our farms, we have imported labor through arrangements entered into with nearby countries. I was ashamed to read some of the things which Mexico felt it had to write into our labor contracts in order to protect those of its citizens who came to work on our farms and ranches. But I was glad, nevertheless, that the workers were protected.

The other day I happened to see affidavits signed by workers who had come into Florida from the Bahama Islands, and the complaints which were made were not simply of poor living conditions. They were of treatment in which, apparently, the local governmental authorities connived with the employers in flagrant violation of civil liberties.

Such practices as those sworn to in these affidavits can, of course, be fought by union action, but I also think they should be fought by our federal government, which has a responsibility to the governments from which these workers came.

Some Cottons Unwashable

By BETTINA BEDWELL

WITH cottons such a big item in the . . . I think you ought to know that not all cottons are washable. The same goes for a lot of rayons, too.

It is the wisest course to get a definite assurance from the salespeople who sell you cottons or rayons that these will wash. And not only wash, but wash well. If you don't get this assurance have them cleaned to avoid possible ruin.

Dry cleaners have a technique with cottons, which do not dry-clean well, and that is a wet dry-cleaning, so if you have a cotton outfit that won't wash, better send it to be cleaned.

Tea for New Debs

By BETTY ALDEN

GRADUATIONS have been playing an important part this week in the family of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Tyson of Boston and Newport. Their attractive daughter, Betty, who will be one of the coming season's outstanding debutantes, graduated from the fashionable Westlake School for Girls in Beverly Hills, Cal., where she was a classmate and close friend of Shirley Temple.

LUCIA BROWN—New Deb

Betty arrived in Boston yesterday for a whirl of June partying before going to Newport for the summer. En route east she attended graduation festivities at Culver Military Academy where she had the thrill of seeing her brother, William S. Tyson, receive his degree as second in command of the school and where she led the cotillion at the commencement ball.

Tomorrow evening she will be presented with 123 Boston debs at the festive June debutante cotillion at the Copley Plaza. She will make her formal bow to society in August at her parents' estate, Beachmound, in Newport and in the fall will be honored at a dance at the Chilton Club. While in Boston she is staying with her family at the Copley Plaza.

* * *

ONE HUNDRED AND NINE young women, mostly debutantes of the coming season, were admitted to provisional membership in the Junior League at the annual tea for provisionals yesterday.

One of the first to arrive was Hilda Ayer, who entertained her Beaver Country Day senior classmates at a picnic luncheon at her family's estate in Hamilton. Most of her guests carried tennis racquets and suitcases containing their sneakers and sport clothes. Among them were Betsy Bird, Mary Katharine Arnold, Catherine Martinez, Nancy Thacher, Joan MacDuffie, Margaret Louis Whipple and Joan Tenney.

Other attractive new Junior Leaguers are Charlotte Worthen, who wore a soft yellow wool coat over her navy dress, Diana Metcalf in a green checked tweed suit, Priscilla Trainer in summery cotton dress of apple green with a bodice of white eyelet embroidery, Betsy Milliken in turquoise silk with a pair of pearl studded combs in her long brown bob, Frances Walker a peppy little blonde, in fuchsia and black print with a black velvet hair band, and Beatrice Weeks, who accented her gray tailored suit with navy accessories.

Lucia Brown, Cynthia Moller and Nancy Carr, classmates at Milton Academy, came together; Amey Amory, another of the season's most attractive debs, carried a package of Victrola records under her arm, and Becky Bradford came with her Winsor classmate, Persis Gleason.

Anne Griswold, Elizabeth Chamberlin, Suzanne Drinker, Cynthia Fletcher, Nancy Wheatland, who came with Nancy Atwood, Helen Ward, Mary H. Callan, Ada Risley with her close friend, Laura Curtis, Connie Minot, Anne Wilson, Joanna Greene and Dorothy Hovey were others among the new debutante members attending the tea.

Tardy Plants Prey of Insects

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of Vegetable Gardening Department Norfolk County Agriculture School, and director of the Boston Record-American-Advertiser demonstration garden on the Common.

Because of cold wet soil, warm weather crops cannot assimilate nitrates, with the result that the plants are turning yellow and the leaf area getting smaller.

This is the natural way for plants to survive under poor weather conditions, but insect attacks must be watched as weak plants cannot fight them off.

The cucumber beetle has not made an appearance in most gardens, but will as soon as the weather warms up. Cucumber beetles will attack all vine crops and unless they are controlled will do considerable damage.

Control for cucumber beetles is best obtained as follows: 1—As soon as the first true leaves appear either spray or dust your squash and cucumbers with rotenane or a neutral copper dust with arsenate added. 2—Apply dust either early in the morning or late evening when the plants are damp. Light applications every few days until the vines have started to run will go a long way in the control of this insect. Dust continually during the month of June.

This year due to poor growing conditions many gardeners are losing their tomatoes and pepper plants due to careless setting of plants. Be sure the soil is firm and protect them from cutworms as they are still working. If you have lost some plants there is still time to replant. Do not leave blank spaces in the row as this cuts down the yield and encourages weeds to develop.

U-Boat Aids War Bond Sale

A German submarine came to Boston today in a friendly role to help sell war bonds in the Seventh War Loan drive.

The captive U-boat U-505, formally turned over to the Treasury Department at ceremonies on Central Wharf this morning, was thrown open for inspection by patriotic bond purchasers.

Rear Adm. Felix X. Gygax, commandant of the First Naval District, formally presented the submarine to F. W. Denio, chairman of the Massachusetts War Finance Committee. Gov. Tobin was represented by Lt. Owen Gallagher, and Mayor Kerrigan and other state and city officials attended.

PWs See Horror

FT. CUSTER, Mich., June 7 (AP)—German war prisoners confined here were taken on a brief movie tour of German horror camps yesterday and emerged a serious, sober lot.

It was the first showing here of a series of newsreels of Nazi prison camps which the War Department has ordered all German prisoners to see.

Lines to Brotherhood Under the White Cross

By AUSTEN LAKE

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY OF D-plus-1. One year ago American kids who hated their task were resolutely gouging toe-holds on Normandy's beaches! Their throats were dry with the acid taste of FEAR. Some died horribly—boys scarcely over the doorstep of life! One year ago today!

And now serenity reigns over the Norman scene! In fields beyond St. Mere, Eglise and Blosville thousands of white wooden crosses stand in orderly rows, crosses stencilled with American names and many bearing the legend "Unknown"—yesterday's sons whose families long ago received formal telegrams, "The government is grieved . . . Missing in action . . . Further information as available."

But they are NOT missing! This vast anonymity of death lies yonder where now the French plowman whistles at his work and the vintner prunes his vines. The summer winds sigh gently through the orchards. June rains wash the greening soil where tangles of barbwire rust on crooked spindles and deserted pillboxes rest silent and scarred. The clutter of wrecked towns is salvaged. Man, so quick to forget, resumes his "normal way of life" in Europe's everlasting cycle between wars.

They Join the Fellowship of 1918

THESE SILENT, BOYISH SLEEPERS in an alien soil, are not alone! There are great, hallowed acreages of older wooden crosses, at Sursesnes and other American cemeteries of that First World War, where lie the moldering husks of men who would be rising fifty now. Who weeps for them? Our tears have long since dried! The pledges of a "grateful" nation are forgotten echoes! Gray ghosts of that older day, WHAT was it YOU died for?

What of your dreams in that long ago, Comrades? And the summer wind answers, "No dreams now."

Well, what of the pledges of a grateful nation, Comrades?

And the answer, "There are no nations now."

In more than 200,000 American homes there are framed diplomas in lettered gilt, now gathering dust and tarnish and reading that Kevin, Roger, Bernard, Irving and Ralph died in 1918 that "idealism might not perish from the earth." And do you, brave Kevin, Roger and Irving remember, with those ears now stopped by clay, the fine phrases of stay-at-home politicians which followed you to your graves, the time-staled pap of centuries refashioned with sugar coatings, "Sweet and proper is it to die for one's country"?

Much better, brave Kevin, to live above green growing grass! The Man with the Hoe loves the smell of his brown earth. The Man at the Forge loves the sound of his hammer! Peace and the right to create something useful at a living wage is the essence of national pride! But that was very long ago.

Do you, old forgotten ghosts of that other war, sleep restlessly among your new-found fellowship? And do you stretch forth disillusioned hands to greet this younger brotherhood—youth so lately sun-tanned, lean and strong, as you once were. And do you say, "Come little brothers, enter into our soon-to-be-forgotten fellowship—and forget."

Shall We Fail Them Again?

SOMETIMES IN THE HIGH WILDERNESS of the Saar or in the pleasant valleys of the Moselle, we would pass wayside graves—fresh graves surmounted by unpainted crosses or Israel's Stars and topped by a battered helmet. The air was sweet with balsam scents and curly woodsmoke and fertile earth. And the whispering winds would sough through the shell-broken trees, seeming to carry the whispers of the silent sleepers, "I did not want to come! I remember the sun dancing on the sea at home and the spun-glass notes of woodbirds. I remember the grassy playing fields and the distant shouts of playmates. I think of the gingerbread odors of my mother's kitchen. I did not want to come."

There was a seedling apple orchard near Coblenz where spindling adolescent trees were still too young for fulsome fruit. It was blossom time and the infant orchard was adance with springtime lace, virginal as first-communion maids. And between the tender, thirsty roots lay 40 American boys. How did you come to rest there Jason Cleary and Stephen Pater and Gullio Ciaccio and Abraham Baum and you who were marked "Unknown." What fell mischance overtook you here?" And did you, too, die that "idealism might not perish from the earth?"

Nearby there was an ancient, ruined church yard where reeling tombstones bore unreadable tracery eroded by centuries of wind and rain—the graves of ancient soldiery from forgotten wars fought for forgotten causes sponsored by national greeds, border jealousies and pomposities of famous leaders. The soldiers are no longer remembered but the leaders rest in bronze sarcophagi, enshrined with floral offerings. What did YOU die for, grim ancient ghosts?

So Europe reaps another crop of American youth while American statesmen tinker timidly with new-born border jealousies, national greeds and pomposities of famous leaders. We temporize, conciliate and hesitate while the Europe's old-age chimera grins and rattles its flimsy chains. We listen while our professorial logicians, theoretical statesmen and professional humanitarians debate vaccinating poisonous peoples with our Democratic virus and turning them loose to foment new wars. We falter in policies, fumble with reality, dance amid false shadows and are trapped by age-old knaveries. We lack plan and resolution in high places while new wars breed.

Sleep well and dreamlessly, both old and young ghosts in alien soil. May you, brave youth, never point accusing fingers at us as those gray ghosts of 20 years ago, point them and shrill, "You failed our faith." May no more American youth, as yet unborn, join you in future time to lie under wooden crosses, in alien soil, their only requiem the time-staled pap of stay-at-home politicians, refashioned with sugar coating, "Dulce et decorum est . . ."

Much better to live above green growing grass!

"My Left-handed Day" Quips "Lucky" Ferriss

By HUCK FINNEGAN

Above the .500 mark for the first time this season, the Red Sox take the 6 p. m. train for New York this evening after closing their three-game series with the A's today at Fenway Park. They open a four-game series with the Yanks tomorrow.

This has been a most profitable home stand for the Sox. They defeated the Browns 4-1 on May 23 after returning from the West. They were in last place at the time. Today, as Jim Wilson squared off against southpaw Charlie Cassaway, they had won 12 of 17 home games, had lifted themselves into a virtual triple tie for third place.

Dave Ferriss pitched them to the 20-20 mark in the midweek twin bill with the A's, and relief pitcher Red Barrett made it 21-20 when he relieved Pinky Woods and went on to win a 3-2 duel.

Ferriss won, 5-2, but the score is quite misleading. The Sox rookie had the scare of a lifetime as he won his eighth straight game without defeat to tie Johnny Whitehead's freshman record. He was combed for 14 hits, issued three walks and hit a batsman. Four hits were made off him in the third, four in the eighth, yet the A's scored only one run in each frame. It sounds incredible, but actually they left 14 men on bases.

"It was his day to lose," explained Catcher Bob Garbark. "He didn't have it. If he could get past that one, he should never lose a game. He'll never be that bad again."

"Guess this should have been my left-handed day," said Ferriss, munching on a ham sandwich but smiling withal. "How many men did they leave on? Fourteen? And 11 in Philadelphia, and all they got was two runs. Oh boy! They ought to call me "Lucky" Ferriss."

The young air corps dischargee took a prodding from his mates in good spirit.

"Nobody ever knocked the glove off me," ribbed Mike Ryba, referring to Kell's smash in the ninth which Ferriss quickly turned into a double play.

FERRISS STILL UNMOVED

"Did you see those A's crowd the batter's circle?" barbed Ben Steiner. "The couldn't wait to get up to the plate. Summers had to keep sending them back to the dugout. Quit making .300 hitters out of a cellar team, roomie."

"I was just getting the range on how far I could go without getting beaten," quipped Ferriss, whose disposition remains unchanged whether he pitches a one-hitter or a 14-hitter.

You can bet he wasn't as bad as he looked, however. He got Rosar twice, once with three on, again with two, for third outs. He got Joe McGhee with three on when a hit would have sent him to the showers. He was nimble enough in the ninth to convert Kell's wicked smash into a DP. And his long double in the eighth scored Garbark with the run that cemented his victory. He was there in the pinches.

Yet, so widespread is his fame that New York asked press operators to check their hit totals, just as New York insisted the totals be checked when HC routed BC, 55-12, in '42. It will be interesting to see how he fares against the Yanks in New York Sunday. The Big Town is so excited about him a sell-out crowd of 80,000 is predicted.

* * *

"How about a locker now?" Ferriss pleaded with Johnny Orlando. "You didn't lose, didja?" countered the Sox clubhouse czar. "No locker until you lose" . . . Ferriss was surrounded by autograph seekers after the game. "Still want it after that one?" he grinned . . . In the opener, Lake made three hits, scored two runs, walked and was hit by a pitched ball . . . The 10,565 crowd was a tribute to Ferriss' drawing powers. There were only a few hundred in the park at 1:30. Both games were held up by rain . . . Metro, with three hits and two walks, had a perfect day against Ferriss. Wilkins also got three.

* * *

Overlooked in the excitement of the day was Red Barrett's one-hit, scoreless four-inning relief trick. His curve ball was snapping like a horsewhip. It was his second victory in a relief role. Steiner's triple and McBride's fly gave him the winning margin . . . The "We want Lazor" club was in good voice after Johnny's pinch-single to score Tobin tied the nightcap in the seventh.

Johnny Gilbert's Skill Aided Nowadays Win

By JACK CONWAY

JOHNNY GILBERT proved once more the importance of a great jockey when he brought Nowadays in a winner in the $10,000 Narragansett War Bond race. Gilbert rode a perfect race, and was a vital factor in Nowadays' victory over the odds-on favorite Kewey Dee.

Gilbert is one of the leading riders of the country, and he was guaranteed $1000 to come to Narragansett Park to ride Nowadays. Ordinarily a jockey gets a moderate fee and a 10 per cent of the purse in the event his mount wins. Gilbert was assured of $1000 regardless of the outcome of the race.

Many keen racegoers who like to check on the ability of jockeys had wagers on Nowadays. The fact Johnny Gilbert was up on Nowadays caused them to move up this thoroughbred many points in their ratings. A great jockey like Gilbert can help even a fair horse a great deal, while a good horse like Nowadays is difficult to beat when in such capable hands.

A good horse loses many points in handicap ratings when he has a poor rider. This is why owners and trainers try so hard to secure capable riders for their mounts.

★ ★ ★

THE $1,140,000 handle set a new mark for Wednesday betting at Narragansett Park during this meeting.

The $10,000 Narragansett war bond race was good promotion. It gave the mid-week card an attraction which caused many persons to turn out for the races. The public is interested in races between leading three-year-olds. So are the owners and trainers.

Charles F. Adams, former president of Suffolk Downs, was at the track to see Kewey Dee, owned by Mrs. Weston W. Adams, his daughter-in-law. Bruce Wetmore, who was associated with Adams in Suffolk Downs, also was at Narragansett Park.

Flying Bridge, owned by Mrs. Weston W. Adams, furnished an upset by winning the third race to pay $20.40.

★ ★ ★

THREE YANKEE stars, outfielder Johnny Lindell, infielder George Stirnweiss and pitcher Bill Zuber, have been called for preinduction physical examinations in New York. Lindell and Stirnweiss have been the power of the Yanks' attack. With the draft taking new toll the Yanks will find it difficult to retain their first place berth.

Tobin Subdues Phils In Third B's Victory

By BILL GRIMES

PHILADELPHIA, June 7—Believe it or not, Jim Tobin fast-balled the Braves to a 3 to 1 victory over the Bluejays in the first game of a doubleheader this afternoon at Shibe Park. In all the years he has been with the Braves, Tobin was never as fast as today. He mixed his pitches so cleverly that he had the Phillies off balance and guessing. They weren't good guessers for they made only seven hits.

Bill Lee went eight innings for the Bluejays and was charged with the defeat. He gave up three runs and nine hits. Lou Lucier pitched the last frame.

Tommy Holmes made two hits, drove in as many runs and scored.

The Braves broke into the lead in the third, driving over a trio of runs. Culler and Tobin singled nad Joost moved them along with a sacrifice. Then Holmes connected with a two-run single and scored on hits by Mack and Gilenwater.

The Bluejays reached Tobin for three hits and a run in the fourth. With one down, Foxx beat out a hit to Wietelmann and went to second on Monteagudo's single. And then, with two away, Peacock doubled, scoring Foxx, but Drews took Gillenwater's throw and relayed it to Masi in time to nip Monteagudo at the plate.

The Phillies filled the bases with no one out in the eighth but didn't score. Hammer beat out a perfect bunt and was safe at second when Joost threw high after making a nice stop of DiMaggio's drive. (Vince batted for Lee).

Crawford tried to sacrifice but Tobe couldn't field his bunt and the sacks were jammed. Dinges hit a one-hopper back at Tobin, who jumped high, grabbed the ball, wheeled and threw to the plate, forcing Hammer, and Masi's throw doubled up Dinges. Then Wasdell ended the threat by rolling out to Tobin.

Tom Earley made his initial start of the season against Dick Barrett in the nightcap.

Casey Takes Back Wrestling Title

Steve "Crusher" Casey regained his mat crown at the Boston Arena last night when he dethroned Frank Sexton in a very odd windup. After each won a fall, both fell through the ropes and out of the ring. Casey managed to get back at the count of 14 but Sexton was unable to return before the referee tolled off 20 and as a result, the decision went to Casey.

In the preliminaries—Lew Laird pinned George Mansor at 15:21; Chief Osley dropped Charlie Harben at 5:98; Al Staples and Tiger Tasker went 20 minutes to a draw.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect these conditions and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Dick Casey Club To Use Epstein

The Dick Casey Club of Dorchester, perennial Park League champions, will use "Cy" Epstein, their portside chucker, against the Hicks Engineers tonight when they meet at the Town Field in Dorchester.

The Casey's have slipped along in low gear the first few weeks of the season but have knocked off wins at the opportune time, enough to entrench themselves in second place, a half-game behind the Navy Yard A. A. A win for the Casey Club tonight at the expense of the fifth place Hicks outfit and a loss for the Navy Yard against the surging McCarthy Club would put the Casey's at the top of the heap.

Jap Women Feed Refugees on Ie Shima

Supper is prepared in ovens dug in the ground at a civilian refugee camp on Ie Shima, which was captured by soldiers, Coast Guardsmen and Navy men. The native women stoically go about their duty of boiling up rice balls for their fellow refugees
